Auto-selecting product variants

Where only one option exists for a product, that variant should be auto-selected so that the customer only needs hit 'Add to Cart'. However, the Product List Attributes widget was playing up and not selecting anything. We've whipped it back into shape and single options are once again being automatically selected.